We use the Fourier method to strategies. Our results indicate nities of banks, which can be c

*Corresponding author

To analyze the presence of comm we estimate the variance-covarian

The Italian electronic broker ma whole existing domestic overnigh the Euro area in being a screen b interbank trades are largely bilate and foreign banks can exchange fu in 1999, 196 in 2000, 183 in 2001 a quotes to facilitate credit line che finalized if the ordering bank acc

In figure 2 we plot the distributio highly active banks. We find that form $a \exp(-t/\tau)^{\beta}$ [1]. The param 1.

We denote the signed trading vo single bank, where every transacti and with a minus sign if the trans a given liquidity, lends some mon the total signed trading volume v decreasing to zero thereafter.

implementation of a classical Pea

Bank code	a
1	3558
70	1031

Table 1: Parameter estimation fo for two highly active banks. The form $a \exp(-t/\tau)^{\beta}$. $< dT >$ is t two banks.

the error and the largest the bias correlations among trading strate $M = 500$ are more centered aroun not a great difference between the the following results are obtained

3 Principal Compo

We analyze the correlation matrix matrix theory (RMT), in line wit a borrower). Thus, they transact among trading strategies is less st

4 Communities str

The aim of this section is to ide trading strategies. To help visua represent large Italian banks wit Italian banks with green and sma limits, while on a monthly level, in reserves at a lower frequency a other balance sheet positions over be able to play strategically at low longer time scales. Nonetheless w matrices over the two time scales correlation network in figure 9 (to

To check that the method does not do not emerge purely from the f

[1]For visualizations we used Graphvi unless one knows, a priori, how ma approaches based on the spectral a does not need any a priori knowle (which is the most common case optimization problem, in which w by an harmonic potential energy.

Many spectral methods [31,32,33 (weighted) connectivity matrix A, the functions of A adopted are the $N = K^{-1}A$, where K is the diago number of nodes in the network.

Figure 9: Positive correlations gr (top) and reshuffled transactions

Figur

figure 10.

Figure 13: (Left) Second eigenve reveals the presence of two comm components for the reshuffled ma for the correlation matrix obtaine is not visible in this case.

As the second eigenvalue approac ure 12 shows that near the EOM in contrast with our previous find decreases when EOM approaches. correlation of strategies inside th tion between the two communitie observed that very few banks cha

Finally we note that the first comm

[3] R. Reno', International Journ
87-102.

[4] O. Precup, G. Iori, Physica A

[5] M.O. Nielsen and P.H. Frederi

[6] E. Barucci and R.Reno', Journ Money 12 (2002), 183-200

[7] E. Barucci and R.Reno', Econ

[8] M. Mancino and R. Reno', Ap

[27] J. Duch and A.Arenas, Physi

[28] L. Danon, A.Diaz-Guilera, J.
P09008 (2005).

[29] M. Girvan, and M.E.J. Newm of USA 99 (12) (2002), 7821.

[30] A. Capocci., V.D.P. Servedi
(2005), 669-676.

[31] K.M. Hall, Management Scie